

Brenda Paris has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Société de transport de Montréal since 2001 and Chair of its Ethnic and Social Diversity Committee.

Since 1996, she has been CEO of BP Consulting – Training and Development. From 2008 to 2009, she directed a NOIVMWC national project on women and governance. Since 2004, has been recognized as a certified comparative gender analysis educator by Status of Women Canada. From 2001 to 2003, she was Executive Director of the Montréal Black Community Resource Centre. She was Coordinator of Student Development at Dawson College for 15 years and founded the Department of Third World Student Affairs. From 2004 to 2007, she was a Commissioner on the Commission québécoise des libérations conditionnelles.

Brenda Paris is committed...

As a volunteer, she is recognized for her leadership and social involvement for a just and equal society. She has a long history of commitment, particularly as a member of the Conseils des Montréalaises, a member of the Advisory Committee of the SPVM (the Montréal police department) a member of the Commission for the Estates General and a member of the Conseil des relations interculturelles. Since 2007, she has been a Governor of the Montréal Human Rights Film Festival. She is a panellist and speaker in the fields of education, politics, youth and women. She has also dedicated herself to the causes of several community organizations over the years.